Québec à Montréal

ECOLE.INM.QC.CA

L'École d'été is a four-day event designed to develop civic skills and to experiment with different forms of citizen participation. It is also a forum for a multitude of actors, indeed, on top of mingling with other motivated participants; you will also meet public figures, politicians, journalists, researchers and artists with whom you can exchange ideas. And above all, it's a festive and dynamic event that belongs to you!

IMPACT GENERATION AT L'ÉCOLE D'ÉTÉ

Impact generation is an invitation to reflect, but also a way to have an impact through actions, projects, ideas, innovation, advocacy, and artistic works. The year 2017 needs this commitment. The challenges are numerous and complex: climate change, living together in harmony, the refugee crisis, and the increasing social inequalities... All this while having in the backdrop the technological and media revolutions with the well-known consequences on how we learn, communicate and live our democracy.

What are the best strategies for social transformation? How to mobilize as many people as possible, and become an actor of change? How to exercise leadership? How can a local project have an overall impact? L'École d'été is a space and a time for learning, but above all it is a space for commitment. Moreover, it is an opportunity to develop collective projects, to deliberate on social issues and to think about innovative proposals. So come and take advantage of this platform that is offered to you and leave your mark.

Become an impact generation!

THE SCHOOL OF CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

The various profiles will allow you to explore citizen participation in ways that will inspire you. Whether it is through entrepreneurship, exploration, mobilization, communication, facilitation or the development of innovative social proposals. Making an impact calls for occupying the public space, making your voice heard, questioning yourself and finding answers. So choose your profile and experience the various forms of citizen participation!
